Continental Breakfast and Microsoft Platinum Sponsor Session: Fusion Framework - Enhancing Fusion Center Capabilities

Exhibit Hall

Microsoft Corporation and ESRI have joined forces to develop an innovative set of technical capabilities designed to help public safety and homeland security professionals more effectively identify and help prevent threats posed by organized crime, gangs, drug cartels, and terrorists while strengthening the ability of government to prevent, prepare for and respond to natural disasters and other events. Through close collaboration, these two industry leaders are proud to jointly introduce the Fusion Core Solution, a public safety and homeland security solution architecture. The solution leverages the best capabilities from both organizations' software products in a simple-to-use, easily configurable solution that provides seven key capabilities for municipal, county, regional, state, or federal intelligence and fusion centers that are easily adaptable to other public safety sector information fusion and collaboration needs.

Presenters: Colin Nurse, Chief Technology Officer, U.S. State and Local Government, Microsoft Public Sector
Joseph Rozek II, Executive Director for Homeland Security and Terrorism, Microsoft Corp.

8:30 a.m. - 9:30 a.m.

Opening Plenary Panel:

The Relationship Between Economic Conditions and Crime Rates - Or Not

Grand Ballrooms E-H

Questions are emerging in criminology that require interdisciplinary thought on the pervasive problem of crime. Why do crime rates change from city to city? Do larger economic forces effect crime at the neighborhood level in these cities? Do criminal justice policies effect neighborhoods differently across the same metropolitan area? Why are some neighborhoods consistently crime ridden and others are not? A recent example that embodies all of these questions is the foreclosure crisis. Some places that are reeling from high volumes of foreclosures are also experiencing subsequent changes in crime patterns and rates as a result. Yet others cities are not experiencing either. It is similar to the drop in crime rates in the 90s when many metropolitan areas saw significant reductions in crime yet others remained stagnant or got worse. This session will explore the intersection of thought and research from criminology, economics and geography to provide a framework to answer these and future questions. Next, it will discuss the idea of geographic variation across metropolitan areas toward identifying indicators of crime that are more general to place. Finally, it will discuss the data needs and issues that would be required to conduct research within the proposed framework.

Moderator: John Farmer Jr., Dean, Rutgers School of Law - Newark

Panelists: Lawrence Brown, Distinguished Professor, Department of Geography, The Ohio State University
H. Naci Mocan, Ourso Distinguished Chair of Economics, Department of Economics, Louisiana State University
Richard Rosenfeld, Curators Professor, Department of Criminology and Criminal Justice, University of Missouri, St. Louis

Voices From the Field - Regional Priorities and Concerns

Forum participants are invited to meet with colleagues from their region to engage in a facilitated dialogue to define the issues, priorities and concerns they face as criminal justice policymakers and practitioners. As different regions of the country face their own challenges discuss how your neighbors are meeting the challenges facing your region. In addition, NCJA uses the priorities developed in these sessions to guide its work over the course of the year. The list of priorities developed by each region will be distributed to Forum participants.

Monday August 10, 2009

1:45 p.m. - 3:15 p.m.

Managing for Success: Effective Meetings

Maple Room

Meetings are essential to accomplishing an organization's mission and goals; however, many meetings are unproductive or even counter-productive. In this workshop you will learn how to how to implement meeting strategies, develop agendas that produce results and make effective use of participants' time and yours.

Presenters:

Kay Chopard Cohen, Deputy Executive Director, NCJA

Tammy Woodhams, Senior Staff Associate, NCJA

Proven Strategies to Respond to Gang Violence

Grand Ballroom I

Gang violence continues to plague many communities. Experienced law enforcement practitioners will discuss effective strategies to investigate, respond to and prevent these crimes.

Moderator:

Jack Calhoun, Director, Hope Matters

Panelists:

Priscilla Lisicich, Executive Director, Safe Streets Campaign

Paul Seave, Director, CA Office of Gang and Youth Violence Policy

Chief Richard Van Boxel, Oneida Tribal Police Department

Mortgage Fraud and Home Foreclosures: Community Impacts and Collaborative Responses

Grand Ballroom J

The number of vacant and abandoned properties in communities across the U.S. has increased, and mortgage fraud and foreclosures are reported to play a key role in the issue. Vacant and abandoned properties often become unsightly, diminish the property values of surrounding homes and communities, and invite disorder and criminal activity into these communities. One estimate gives a conservative figure of $218 billion in losses in 2007 as a direct result of mortgage fraud on subprime loans. In this presentation learn: (1) how to recognize mortgage fraud and the effects it has on the community; (2) the criminal activities related to mortgage fraud and vacant properties, and (3) how to prosecute mortgage fraud.

Moderator:

Chris Watler, Project Director, Harlem Community Justice Center

Panelists:

Ann Fulmer, Vice President of Business Relations, Interthinx

Abed Hammoud, Lead Prosecutor, Wayne County, MI

Brad Ramos, Chief, Indio Police Department

Glenn Theobald, Chief Legal Counsel, Miami-Dade Police Department

Predictive Analytics and the Power of Information - The Definitive Combination

Grand Ballroom K

Advancing the value of information sharing through technology to support effective decision driven law enforcement and justice delivery strategies. This session will elaborate on the combined power of proven criminal deterrent and investigate methodologies and practices when combined with new technologies and open standards based access to information. The discussion will include presentations on: crime solving methodologies from criminology experts; technologists on the available tools and technologies; and information engineering experts.

Moderator:

Matt D'Alessandro, IJIS Board Member, Business Development Manager, Motorola Corp.

Panelists:

Charles Beck, Deputy Chief, Los Angeles Police

John Hoyt, Branch Manager for Information Sharing and Analysis Programs, Science and Technology Directorate, DHS

Alternatives to Incarceration – Cost Effective Public Policy

Grand Ballroom I

States struggling with the high cost of incarceration are implementing policies and programs to manage offenders in the community as an alternative to incarceration prior to trial and post disposition. Policy makers and practitioners will discuss the characteristics of effective strategies and their impact on state and local budgets.

Moderator:

Tim Murray, Executive Director, Pretrial Justice Institute

Panelists:

Ray Billotte, Court Administrator, Pittsburgh, (Allegheny County), PA
Gary Darling, Criminal Justice Coordinator, Larimer County, CO

The Critical Role of Fusion Centers in Protecting the “Home Town”

Grand Ballroom J

Intelligence is a very powerful public safety tool. It has the capacity to provide the leadership of state and local law enforcement agencies with an understanding of the public safety environment of the community in order to develop strategic and tactical responses to threats and violence from street gangs, guns and narcotics traffickers or international terrorist organizations.

The 72 Fusion Centers (FC) that are now operational are providing services to support our national effort against terrorism, but equally important these centers are providing information that assists chiefs and sheriffs in making critical decisions on how to best prevent criminal behavior.

This panel will share examples of how FCs are supporting chiefs and sheriffs in the everyday challenges to safety in our communities. The representatives on this panel will share how the FCs, working with the chiefs and sheriffs, play a critical role in protecting our communities.

Moderator:

Tom O’Reilly, Senior Policy Advisor, BJA

Panelists:

Ray Guidetti, Lieutenant, NJ State Police
Steve Hewitt, Director, TN Fusion Center
Cmdr. Joan McNamara, Los Angeles Police, Intelligence Section

Interactive Session: Overcoming the Hurdles to Sustainable Information-Sharing

Grand Ballroom K

Many jurisdictions are well down the road to seamless information-sharing across organizational and geographic boundaries. Many more are encountering policy, technology, and funding hurdles along the way. A few are just taking their first steps in this direction. This session replicates interactive planning sessions that the JISP Board of Directors has conducted in Sacramento, CA and Essex County, NJ. Audience members will be encouraged to interact with the panelists, discussing problems, solutions and best practices with respect to governance, use of technology standards, public-private partnership, measuring results, and other critical success factors to building strong, sustainable information-sharing initiatives.

Moderator:

Maury Mitchell, Director, AL Criminal Justice Information Center

Panelists:

John Dough, Chief, Essex County (NJ) Sheriff’s Office
Tim Galante, Director, AIC Government Solutions,
Jackie Weaknecht, County Planning Unit Supervisor, Office of Criminal Justice System Improvements, PA Commission on Crime and Delinquency

Intelligence-led Policing - Lessons from the Field

Grand Ballroom J

Faced with chronic crime and likelihood of reduced state and local revenues, many law enforcement agencies are embracing intelligence-led policing (ILP) to address their police service responsibilities and focus their crime fighting activity. As a business model and managerial philosophy, ILP is particularly appealing because it assists law enforcement to make informed tactical and strategic decisions that are effective, economical, and efficient.

This session will support a brief introductory discussion with concrete examples from law enforcement agencies currently employing ILP to dismantle criminal organizations or to prevent neighborhood violence.

Moderator:

Michael Medaris, Senior Policy Advisor, BJA

Panelists:

Andrew Mills, Lieutenant, Gang Unit Commander, San Diego Police Department
Brian Russell, Lieutenant, Homicide Unit-Major Crimes Division, Richmond Police Department

Corrections Information Sharing - We Could Have the Person You're Looking For...Wouldn't You Like to Know

Grand Ballroom K

This session will provide a high level view of the value of sharing critical information – institutional and community corrections – with the law enforcement, fusion and broader homeland security and justice communities. The discussion will focus on much of the work supported by BJA involving some of the major corrections associations. Subject matter will address issues of national interest, including: Adult Re-Entry, Gangs and Release Information Sharing.

Moderator:

David Usery, President, URL Integration

Presenters:

Kathy Gattin, Application Systems Administrator, AR Department of Corrections
Robert May, Associate Director, Association of State Correctional Administrators
Sharad Rao, President & CEO, Tetras Consulting

Tammy Woodhams, Senior Staff Associate, NCJA

Providing Community Support for Individuals Returning from Incarceration

Grand Ballroom I

Communities across the country are implementing policies and programs to provide support to returning offenders while ensuring public safety. Policy makers and program managers will discuss effective strategies to ensure offenders are provided opportunities to succeed while community members including crime victims are protected.

Moderator:

Roland Mena, Executive Director, MT Board of Crime Control

Panelists:

Larry Fehr, Senior Vice President, Pioneer Human Services
Tony Fish, Program Coordinator, Creek (Muscogee) Nation Re-integration Program
Scott Rehr, Executive Director, Berks Connections/Pre-trial Services

The Power of Effective Information Sharing: Case Studies of Excellence

Grand Ballroom J

Our nation's political leaders have identified improved information sharing as a high priority for providing assistance in fighting crime and anticipating possible terrorist initiatives. Some of our states through criminal justice and law enforcement initiatives, court programs and leveraging of corrections information, provide examples of excellence that could be replicated by other practitioners. This session will review several of those case studies that can provide valuable lessons learned compiled in the process of implementing successful information sharing initiatives.

Moderator:

Jim Pingel, NIEM Program Management Office, JISP Board of Directors

Panelists:

Kenneth Clark, Senior VP Sales & Marketing, CORE Technology Corporation

Tuesday August 11, 2009

11:30 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.

Awards Luncheon

Exhibit Hall

The National Criminal Justice Association and the IJIS Institute will recognize outstanding individuals and programs that have made a positive impact on community safety and criminal justice policy and practice.

Each year the NCJA Outstanding Criminal Justice Program Award recognizes four programs that showcase successful promising practices in criminal justice. The programs selected address important criminal justice issues; demonstrate effectiveness based upon the programs' stated goals; are good examples of the use of federal funds to initiate a program that is subsequently supported through state and local funds or are self sustaining; and can be easily replicated.

The recipients of this year's NCJA Outstanding Criminal Justice Program Award are:

- Berks County Community Reentry Program — Northeastern Region
- Iowa Jail-Based Substance Abuse Treatment Project — Midwestern Region
- Harriet's House Transitional Housing for Female Ex-Offenders — Southern Region
- Crystal Judson Family Justice Center — Western Region

This year, NCJA will also present its NCJA Career Service Award to a member of the criminal justice community who throughout their career has demonstrated exemplary leadership in the field of criminal justice. The recipient of this year's award will be announced at the luncheon.

The IJIS Institute will present the Robert P. Shumate National Public Safety and Justice Contributor to Excellence Award, named for the first president of the IJIS Institute. This award is presented annually by the IJIS Institute to the person from either industry or the public sector that has made the most valuable contribution to justice and public safety information sharing during the past year. Candidates for the award are nominated by IJIS Institute members and affiliates, and represent the highest level of conviction to public safety information sharing. The winner of this year's award will be announced at the luncheon.

Also, for the first time, the IJIS Institute will present the IJIS Institute Innovation Award. The annual Innovation Award recognizes technical innovation that has contributed significantly to the advancement of integration and interoperability in a justice, public safety, or homeland security project or program. The award, which is open to any company providing justice, public safety, or homeland security solutions, is for team achievement—such as industry partner(s) and practitioner(s)/agency. In addition to the main Innovation Award, the Institute may also recognize one or more worthy nominees via honorable mention. The winner of this year's award will be announced at the luncheon. This year's IJIS Institute Innovation Award is sponsored by eRepublic, publisher of Government Technology Magazine and Emergency Management Magazine.

1:15 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.

Managing for Success: Stress Management

Maple Room

Stress may be considered as any physical, chemical, or emotional factor that causes bodily or mental unrest and that may be a factor in disease causation. Practitioners working in the criminal justice field typically face added stress associated with their jobs. There are many proven skills that can be used to manage stress and help you to remain calm and effective in high pressure situations, and help you avoid the problems of long term stress. In this workshop, participants will learn about the impact of stress and some effective techniques they can apply immediately to help manage stress.

Presenters:

Tammy Woodhams, Senior Staff Associate, NCJA

Sex Offender Registry and Notification Act (SORNA) - How States and Tribal Governments are Implementing Strategies to Protect Communities

Grand Ballroom I

SORNA has mandated complex requirements for states and tribal governments concerning registration and community notification of sex offenders. Many jurisdictions have found that the cost of compliance exceeds the financial penalties for non-compliance, but are implementing strategies to meet the "spirit" of the law.

Moderator:

Anne Jordan, Commissioner, ME Dept. of Public Safety

Panelists:

Joshua Breedlove, Acting Health Director, Choctaw Health Center, and Staff Attorney, Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians
Lori McPherson, Policy Advisor, SMART Office
Julie Towler, Deputy Attorney General, NV Attorney General's Office

Justice Reinvestment: Saving Funds, Lives and Communities

Grand Ballroom J

In the past 20 years, state spending on corrections has grown at a rate faster than nearly any other state budget item. Despite increasing corrections expenditures, recidivism rates remain high with half of all persons released from prison returning within three years. Further, in every state, there are a handful of "high-stakes" communities to which most people released from prison return. The goals of justice reinvestment are increasing public safety, reducing spending on corrections and improving conditions in the neighborhoods to which most people released from prison return. The rational, data-driven strategy of justice reinvestment holds promise for providing policy-makers the opportunity to break the cycle of mass incarceration and apply diminishing resources in an effective and efficient fashion.

Moderator:

Marshall Clement, Program Manager, Council of State Governments Justice Center

Panelists:

David Steingraber, Executive Director, WI Office of Justice Assistance
Hon. Lena Taylor, Senator, WI State Senate

The Value of Improved Incident Response - Getting Data on the Air to Help Responding Agencies Better Protect

Our Communities

Grand Ballroom K

Panel discussion on the importance and value of streamlining the real time flow of involvement information across public safety and justice boundaries. This session will address the challenge of creating radio operability and interoperability on a nationwide scale. The panel will discuss the status of the Public Safety Spectrum Trust (PSST) and the potential of leveraging this new communications infrastructure as a national information sharing platform to deliver data and expanded photo and media services for public safety.

Moderator:

Morgan Wright, IJIS Board Member, Global Industry Solutions Manager, Justice & Public Safety, Cisco Systems

Panelists:

Michael Dillon, Manager, Advanced Programs - Wireless Products Group, HARRIS Corp. Government Communications Systems Division
Chief Harlin McEwen, (Ret.) City of Ithaca, NY, and Chair, IACP Communications and Technology Committee
Stephen Wisely, Interim Director, Communications Center and 9-1-1 Services Department, APCO

The Next Pandemic: Are You Ready?

Grand Ballroom I

Since 1900, there have been three pandemics, the last of which occurred in 1968. It is only a matter of time before the next pandemic hits and we can expect the H1N1 virus (originally named the Swine flu) to return with a vengeance during the approaching flu season. Given the historical impact that pandemics have had in terms of illness and deaths, and the tremendous impact it will have on the administration of justice, it is vital that state leaders prepare and assist other criminal justice stakeholders to plan for the next outbreak. Participants in this workshop will hear from national and state policy makers about what they can do and what tools and resources are available to prepare and save lives during the next outbreak.

Moderator:

Tammy Woodhams, Senior Staff Associate, NCJA

Panelists:

Niki O'Keefe, Director of Administrative Services, AZ Supreme Court, Administrative Office of the Courts

Jackie Weaknecht, County Planning Unit Supervisor, Office of Criminal Justice System Improvements, PA Commission on Crime and Delinquency

Taking Problem-Solving Court Principles to Scale

Grand Ballroom J

This BJA initiative aims to widen the scope of problem-solving courts, testing their approach to wider defendant populations and applying key problem-solving principles (e.g., links to social services, rigorous judicial monitoring, and aggressive community outreach) outside of the problem-solving court context. This session explores ways of applying problem-solving court principles to regular court dockets.

Moderator:

Brett Taylor, Deputy Director, Technical Assistance, Center for Court Innovation

Panelists:

Hon. Phyllis Lister-Brown, Judge, Dallas Community Court

Karen Murray, Defense Supervisor, Seattle Community Court, Associated Counsel for the Accused

Hon. Raymond Norko, Judge, Hartford Community Court

Privacy and Fusion – Protecting Privacy and Civil Liberties While Effectively Combating Terrorism

Grand Ballroom K

Panel discussion on the challenges of protecting peoples' rights to privacy and their civil liberties in the Suspicious Activity Reporting (SAR) realm. This session will address how a careful balance must be, and is being, maintained by the state fusion centers and local law enforcement agencies involved in the SAR project. Discussion will focus on how these organizations have developed information privacy policy and integrated practices into the collection, analysis, dissemination and management of suspicious activity information, including the use of enabling technologies that recognize this balance.

Moderator:

Gerry Wethington, VP Homeland Security, Unisys Corp.

Panelists:

Lt. Ron Leavell, Project Director, WA State Fusion Center

Susan Laniewski, Principal, SAL Consulting

Maury Mitchell, Director, AL Criminal Justice Information Center

Closing Plenary Session:

Changing the Mindset - Taking Advantage of New Information Sharing Paradigms

Grand Ballrooms E-H

This panel will explore new ideas and opportunities for the sharing of sensitive information, including discussion of the capabilities of new and emerging collaboration technologies. This session will include interactive dialogue among panelists from executive, technical and operational backgrounds. Through active dialog with the panelists, attendees will gain an increased understanding of the potential for innovation when information sharing channels are opened.

Moderator: Rob Riegler, Director, State and Local Programs Office, Office of Intelligence and Analysis, DHS

Panelists: Jeff Frazier, Director, IBSG, Global Public Sector, Cisco Systems
Ray Guidetti, Lieutenant, NJ State Police
Tom O'Reilly, Senior Policy Advisor, BJA
